2021 FULBRIGHT U.S. – ASEAN VISITING SCHOLAR PROGRAM (USAS)

Fulbright Thailand (Thailand-United States Educational Foundation) is pleased to announce the 2021 Fulbright U.S.-ASEAN Visiting Scholar Initiative. The objective of the program is to deepen people-to-people engagement and strengthen U.S. educational ties with the 10 member nations of ASEAN, while emphasizing the importance of ASEAN. This marks the eighth year of the initiative. To date, more than 80 scholars from all 10 ASEAN Member States have been awarded scholarships to pursue studies focused on a wide range of subjects including innovative teaching methods, maritime security, climate change, food safety, political security, and human trafficking.

The program is open to university faculty, foreign ministry or other government officials, and professional staff of the private sector, think tanks, and other NGOs in the ASEAN Member States to travel to the United States for scholarly and professional research for 3-4 months on priority issues to the U.S.-ASEAN relationship and ASEAN. It is anticipated that one qualified applicant from Thailand will be selected by a U.S. – ASEAN selection committee.

The applicants may apply to conduct research in fields that support ASEAN initiatives including supporting regional economic integration, expanding maritime cooperation, promoting opportunities for women, fostering green growth, and addressing transnational challenges (including regional collaboration on issues such as curbing human trafficking, countering violent extremism, preventing wildlife trafficking or promoting sustainable fishing). Fields of study could include, but are not limited to: Education, Environmental Sciences, Financial Market Integration, Food Technology, Information Sciences, Journalism, Law, Political Science, Public Administration, Public/Global Health, Statistics, Trade and Investment, Trade Facilitation, and TEFL & Applied Linguistics. These programs and topics should also be of interest and relevance to Thailand and the ASEAN community. While projects can have specific focus, projects that are regional in scope and/or have clear implications for the entire ASEAN region are preferred.

Up to two (2) awards will be offered to successful candidates for the 2021 academic year for a period of 3-4 months. It is anticipated that 10 qualified applicants will be selected, preferably presenting each of the 10 ASEAN Member States. Selection will be based on professional qualifications of applicants, and on the quality and significance of their project proposals. Only if applicable, applicants are encouraged to explore in advance the most appropriate location for their research/lecturing projects and should be able to indicate that the proposed host institutions - universities, archives, institutes, etc. - are prepared to receive the scholars. Applicants are required to submit an official letter of invitation from a U.S. host affiliation.

The Fulbright Foreign Scholarship Board (FFSB) will approve the final slate and Public Affairs Sections and Fulbright Commissions will be notified by April 1, 2021. Congratulatory letters from the Ambassador to the U.S. Mission to ASEAN will be conveyed to selected and non-selected candidates by May 1, 2021.

Fulbright U.S.-ASEAN Visiting Scholar awards will provide:

- A monthly stipend for grantees, between US $2,710 and $3,145/month, depending on the U.S. city.
- A direct-flight, round-trip economy-class air ticket.
- A $1,250 Professional and Settling-in allowance.
- Qualifying university lab and research fees up to $3,000, as necessary.
- No dependent support will be available.

ELIGIBILITY: At the time of application, applicants must:

1. Be a Thai citizen in good health, age not exceeding 58 at the time of application deadline; (individuals holding U.S. immigrant visas or permanent U.S. resident cards/green cards), or dual citizenships (Thai and U.S.) are not eligible to apply);
2. Hold a master's degree or higher and be proficient in English;

3. Be highly motivated and experienced university faculty, foreign ministry and government officials or professionals in the private sector, think tanks and other NGOs whose work focuses on U.S.-ASEAN issues. Applicants will be expected to have a significant record of scholarly or professional accomplishment;
4. Be physically present in Thailand at the time of interview and be residing in Thailand throughout the nomination and selection process, and return to Thailand upon completion of the U.S. stay;
5. Be able to take leave from your home institution or post to participate in the program during January – May 2022; Please understand that program timing may be subjected to change due to travel restrictions or other considerations.
6. Be able to fully participate in every activity organized by Fulbright Thailand, including Preliminary Orientation and Pre-departure Orientation Program which will be held in January and June respectively;
7. Be willing and able to serve as a resource person and a cultural ambassador in the United States, e.g. as a lecturer, seminar participant, consultant, or in other capacities requested by the host institution or community.

Applicants are ineligible if you:

1. Have received a Fulbright grant within the past 5 years;
2. Have received a J-1 visa in the category of Professor/Research Scholar within the past 2 years; and
3. Are currently teaching, studying, or conducting research in the U.S.
4. Those who work for the U.S. Embassy and related agencies, please consult Fulbright Thailand before applying.

Preference will be given to qualified applicants who have not had recent and substantial experience in the United States. Applicants must be residing in Thailand throughout the nomination and selection process and must return to Thailand upon completion of their U.S. stay.

The Fulbright Program offers grants to study, teach and conduct research for U.S. citizens to come to Thailand and for Thai citizens to come to the United States. The objectives are to foster mutual understanding and share knowledge. It is essential that this understanding and knowledge be based on intellectual honesty. Fulbright therefore requires all grant applications, papers, research projects and academic presentations to be free of all forms of plagiarism. Plagiarism by applicants or grantees shall be grounds for immediate rejection of applications and cancellation of grants.

What is plagiarism?

Plagiarism is the use of another's ideas, words or information without appropriate attribution. It is intellectual theft, whether committed intentionally or unintentionally.

What could be plagiarized?

Information, words, charts or images from both published and unpublished sources in any language and by any contributor, including oneself. All such information, words, charts or images must be correctly and fully attributed to their sources.

Common knowledge that is easily found needs no attribution, but when in doubt, provide attribution.

Types of plagiarism (adapted from Turnitin, 2016, cited in IIE webinar)

COPYING and QUOTATION

- with or without a slight change of words
- without quotation marks and appropriate attribution

PARAPHRASING

- citing from one or more sources with only slight changes of words without appropriate attribution

PROBLEMATIC ATTRIBUTION

- inaccurate, incomplete or non-existent attribution

UNETHICAL COLLABORATION

- citing collaborative work without giving credit to the partner(s)

SELF-PLAGIARISM

- citing or copying one's own previously published work without attribution

NON-ORIGINALITY

- composing entire content from citations without any of the author's own ideas

Acceptable attribution

- Naming the source of the copied words or information in the text
- Using footnotes or end notes, ensuring these are complete and correct. Note that Word and other word processing software provide tools for creation of footnotes and endnotes. Also note that free citation generators are available online
- Inclusion in a bibliography may be a necessary, but not always sufficient attribution.

Plagiarism checking

If you have any doubts about plagiarism in your text, use one of the plagiarism checkers available online or ask your university to provide plagiarism checking software. The Fulbright program will be using such software and if violations are found, action shall be taken immediately.
